Memorial Day

can soil to become the theatre, and American captains and soldiers the actors in the most wonderful military drama in the history of time.

Bunker Hill will immortalize the name of Warren, Quebec will perpetuate the valor and devotion of Wolf, Camden is honored with monument of the brave Baron DeKalb, Kings Mountain is the enduring monument to the valor of Campbell, Shelby and Cleveland. But the deeds wrought on the fields of Antietam, Chickamauga and Gettysburg have sent the valor of the American soldier to the ends of the earth.

We frequently hear it asked: "Why do people scatter flowers on the graves of their dead?" The custom, I believe, is confined to Christian lands, and among Christian peoples its significance is the emblem of hope seen in the opening flower.

The character of those upon whose graves the flowers are scattered has much to do with the custom. Judged by this last standard, the Confederate soldier shall sleep under a forest of roses.

He fought for neither greed nor empire. He was not inspired by the hope reward, nor actuated by the promise of place or promotion.

He could not hope to be rewarded from the spoils of the foe, for his was a defensive and not an aggressive warfare.

I assert, therefore, that his sword was not tarnished by disgrace, nor rendered odious by dishonor.

The historian may refuse to record his name in the annals of his country, the orator may cease to speak of his fame from the rostrum, the poet may never immortalize his chivalry in verse and song. So be it; but sir, as long as motherhood shall be hailed with raptures of delight, so long shall the dead soldier boy's grave be covered with flowers in the spring time, and when she is gone her devotion will pass down to future generations.

The time has not yet come when merited valor must beg for recognition in this south land, nor can time or revolution ever obliterate the story of southern chivalry, lead on by Jackson and Kershaw, and Hampton, and Lee.

"The patriot's spirit has not fled, it walks in noon's broad light, And watches the bed of the glorious dead, With the holy stars by night."

Leaving the dead, I now speak to the living.
I make no apology for the fight and I render no complaint for defeat. The highest tribunal to which nations appeal decided against the Confederate cause. We abide by that decision, and pledge our lives to defend the honor and liberties of a common country.

A generation has grown up around us which knew nothing of the civil war. The story of that bloody drama comes to them from books and tradition. We ask that only fair dealing be meted out to the South and her brave sons who now sleep on an hundred bloody fields.

This we ask that future generations may know why she fought, and when defeated, how she surrendered her unarmished name to the victor, as her only pledge of future devotion to the interests of a reunited country.

This pledge was made upon the virtue of a sword, which never knew dishonor, and we appeal to the whole world to decide whether or not that pledge has been kept inviolate and true.

When the war cloud arose between our country and a foreign foe the sons of the gray-haired sires of the Confederacy were among the first to reach the front, and among the first to die in honor of their country and their country's flag.

And now overlooking this city of the dead, where sleep our comrades and friends, we should turn to the future with renewed courage.

The solemn requiem of "earth to earth and dust to dust" is our last official tribute to the dead.

Revolution has wrought changes in our institutions. But we are still a happy and prosperous people.

We still have spring time and harvest, and our fields and factories are cheered by the songs of industry, which is Heaven's pledge for food and raiment, for peace and plenty.

The south, when the war was over, set her face like flint and steel to the future to regain her fallen fortune. Her fields were desolate wastes, with neither houses nor fortunes. All had been swept away by the tempest of civil war. Her cities had been burned to ashes and her people were without bread or homes.

Now after the lapse of 35 years she has become the rival of all competitors in certain lines of manufacture, trade and commerce.

The men who followed John son and Lee, in 1861, were not to be converted into beggars and paupers in 1865. Leaning upon his wooden leg, and with one hand shot off, and sometimes with bullets still in his body, the Confederate soldier put his hand to the plow to make bread for wife and children, or die in the field and be buried in the furrow. You rarely find him in alms houses or begging bread from door to door.

With the courage of the Roman, and the pluck of the Spartan, he asked for no favors at the hands of the victor. No honest historian will attempt to impeach his honor. His deeds during and since the war are his most enduring monument. Let these speak, and we leave future generations to pass judgment upon his character.

This then shall be our word of parting: Let him sleep on. No tocsin of war shall break his peaceful slumbers. Unmindful alike of the tramping of war steeds or the roar of battle, he sleeps on. The boom of the cannon disturbs him not. He leaves to us an immortal heritage. We shall never surrender it to an alien or barter it for a mess of pottage. One country and one flag—liberty and peace forever. No foreign hand shall ever wrench the sceptre of dominion from your imperial grasp.

"Stand your ground, your own my brave,

Will ye give it up to slave?
Will ye look for greener groves?
Hope ye mercy still?

What's the mercy despots feel?
Hear it in that battle peal,
Hear it on your bristling steel,
Ask it ye who will,

Fear ye foes, who kill for hire?
Will ye to your homes retire,
Look behind you there's a fire!
And before you see!

On they came! and will ye quail?
Lead on rain and iron hail
Let them welcome be!

Die we may, and die we must,
In the God of battles trust,
But oh where can dust to dust—
Be consigned so well,

As where Heaven's dews shall shed,
On the martyred patriot's head,
And the rocks shall raise their head—
Of his deeds to tell."

HE KEPT HIS LEG

Twelve years ago J. W. Sullivan, of Hartford, Conn., scratched his leg with a rusty wire. Inflammation and blood poisoning set in. For two years he suffered intensely. Then the best doctors urged amputation, "but," he writes, "I used one bottle of Electric Bitters and 112 boxes of Bucklen's Arnica Salve and my leg was sound and well as ever." For Eruptions, Eczema, Tetter, Salt Rheum, Sores and all blood disorders Electric Bitters has no rival on earth. Try them. Crawford Bros. and J. F. Mackey & Co., will guarantee satisfaction or refund money. Only 50 cents.

Bob Harris colored, a sober and industrious laborer, fell from the C. & W. C. trestle, a distance of thirty feet, yesterday morning at 6:30 o'clock and died from his injuries yesterday afternoon at 4 o'clock.—17 inst Greenville News.

Paxville Hard Hit By Sunday's Storm.

Special to The State.

Paxville, May 20.—People coming into Paxville this morning see signs of destruction in marked evidence. The Methodist church and academy are a heap of ruins, nearly every cotton seed house near the depot is demolished, Drayton's machine shop is down and a large shed, the Bradham property, was blown down and a buggy smashed by the fall. Many small out houses and much fencing is down. The work of destruction was done by a storm which passed through Sunday afternoon about 5 o'clock.

DO YOU GET UP WITH A LAME BACK?

Kidney Trouble Makes You Miserable.

Almost everybody who reads the newspapers is sure to know of the wonderful cures made by Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney, liver and bladder remedy.

It is the great medical triumph of the nineteenth century; discovered after years of scientific research by Dr. Kilmer, the eminent kidney and bladder specialist, and is wonderfully successful in promptly curing lame back, kidney, bladder, uric acid troubles and Bright's Disease, which is the worst form of kidney trouble.

Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root is not recommended for everything but if you have kidney, liver or bladder trouble it will be found just the remedy you need. It has been tested in so many ways, in hospital work, in private practice, among the helpless too poor to purchase relief and has proved so successful in every case that a special arrangement has been made by which all readers of this paper who have not already tried it, may have a sample bottle sent free by mail, also a book telling more about Swamp-Root and how to find out if you have kidney or bladder trouble. When writing mention reading this generous offer in this paper and send your address to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Birmingham, N. Y. The regular fifty cent and one dollar sizes are sold by all good druggists.

CATARRH CAN BE CURED BY Johnston's Sarsaparilla

QUART BOTTLES.

"DANGER IN THE EARTH AND AIR; DANGER EVERYWHERE."

A Wise and Venerable Doctor Talks about Advanced Science. In a leading hotel, in a great city, a famous and aged physician was conversing. Listening to his wise and sententious discourse, were a group of well dressed men, evidently lawyers, business men and commercial travelers. My firm belief, is "that medical science is certain yet to show that all diseases without exception are caused by invisible germs which are living organisms. Here is the germ of that terrible disease diphtheria. Here is the germ of typhoid fever; and here is the still more dreadful bacillus of tubercle which causes that most destructive of all diseases, consumption. This of that very common and supposed incurable disease, catarrh."

"I wish, Doctor," said the traveling man, "that you would tell us about catarrh. I have had it for years, and I am thoroughly discouraged." The Doctor answered, "Catarrh, like diphtheria, consumption, typhoid fever, and a host of other diseases, is the result of a microbe invading the blood and attacking specially the mucous membrane. This foul and most disgusting disease is especially prevalent in the United States and it is rare to meet one who is not, or has not been troubled more or less with it. How often is he or she obliged to remain at home from pleasant entertainments, deprive themselves of many intellectual treats, from fear of the disagreeable odor arising from catarrhal affections. In its worst phase, the patient becomes loathsome both to himself and his friends."

"I believe," continued this great physician, "that the true way to heal catarrh is to medicate the blood. This can be done only by powerful alternatives which act as blood purifiers."

Betsy A. Marrett, of Manistee, Manistee Co., Mich., writes: "Dear Sirs:—For ten years I was a sufferer from general debility and chronic catarrh. My face was pale as death and I was weak and short of breath. I could hardly walk. I was so dizzy and had a ringing in my head all the time. My hands and feet were always cold. My appetite was very poor. On getting up in the morning, my head swam so I was often obliged to lie down again. I had awful pains in the small of my back. I had a continual feeling of tiredness. My muscular power was almost entirely gone, and I couldn't go half a dozen steps without stopping to rest, and often that much exercise caused me to have a pain in my side. It seemed as though the blood had left my veins. The doctors said my blood had all turned to water. I had given up all hope of ever getting well. I tried the best physicians in the state, but failed to get any relief. My husband got me a bottle of Johnston's Sarsaparilla. I took it, and then I bought another. When these had been used, I was somewhat improved in health. I continued its use, and felt I was growing stronger; my sleep was refreshing, and it seemed as if I could feel new blood moving through my veins. I kept on taking it, and now consider myself a well and rugged woman. I work all the time, and am happy. I am positive that the Sarsaparilla saved my life. The sick headaches I have had since childhood, have disappeared, and my catarrh has almost entirely left me. I cannot be too thankful for what Johnston's Sarsaparilla has done for me. I recommend all women who have sick headaches to use your Sarsaparilla."
